Hans PETSCHAR
Austrian National Library

Dr. Hans Petschar (1959) obtained in 1985 a master in History and German Literature at the University of Salzburg. During his studies he worked in research projects on semiotics and linguistics at the universities of Salzburg and Paris.

From 1986 on he worked in several departments at the Austrian National Library and obtained a MAS on Library Science in 1992. At the Austrian National Library he produced a Multimedia Encyclopedia on the history and the special collections of the Library, and led several research projects concerning digitisation of Cultural Heritage objects. In 2002 he became director of the Austrian Picture Archive at the Austrian National Library.

Dr. Petschar lectured at the Universities of Salzburg and Vienna and participated in several research projects of the Austrian Academy of Science and the Austrian Ministry of Culture, Education and Science. He is the official representative of the Austrian National Library in the board of directors of European National Libraries CENL. Since 2006 Dr. Petschar leads the CENL content working group for The European Digital Library.

From 2000 on he worked in several fields for the European Commission. He was partner in the DIGICULT Report (2000 – 2002) and is the Austrian representative in the NRG-group for coordinating digitisation in Europe. In several European projects he worked as researcher, e.g. REGNET, TNT, MINERVA, ERPANET, BRICKS.
